

Billing Precision Educates Chiropractors Using Video and Internet Technologies

Dumont, New Jersey (PRZOOM) February 14, 2007 – Billing Precision, the leading provider of chiropractic practice management solutions, has released Video Practice Management Training Library to help chiropractors improve patient care, increase practice profitability, and reduce audit risk.

As chiropractic office management and billing regulations keep evolving and becoming more complex, technology takes the lead role in maintaining practice profitability and post-payments audit risk management. Practice management systems automate most clinic operation activities, starting with patient check in, SOAP note editing, insurance claim creation, and medical billing.

Unfortunately, the high level of computer skill required by the prohibitively complex chiropractic office management and medical billing solutions often hinders the doctor's ability to use such solutions correctly in a chiropractic office environment. Their high cost and user training problems add insult to injury and frustrate even seasoned and accomplished practice owners.

“Chiropractors using Billing Precision system have access to the training video directly from any screen on the system using a shared knowledge repository on the Web,” says says Dr. Brian Capra, DC, and a partner at Billing Precision. “Such integrated training solution amplifies the advantages of individual training video materials with Internet ability to reach every chiropractic office, share experience of real-world experts, and help practice owners stay smart at their pace and on just the content they need to know.”
